To the Editor:

One of the Ku Klux Klan last week distributed flyers throughout the "Greater Metropolitan Dillsburg" area in the hopes of recruiting new members.

Indeed, Dillsburgians are a diverse group of people, but really running around in bed sheets with holes cut out and burning crosses is just not us.

The Imperial Wizard should know we're into Jack boots and goose stepping down Baltimore Street. Anybody from out of town can tell you that. (Even though the self appointed "father" of Dillsburg stepped down years ago, the rumor still persists).

Another thing I'd like to know is, how do they get their hands on paper?

In the file it states that the robe and hood are symbols of "unity of anonymity in doing good works... If you ask me it looks like a group of "cane heads" having a "Togal" party. Togal? Togal? Somebody get a report!

If you're willing to sign up, don't you want to be a member of the O.T.A.R. of the FBI discouraging you from becoming a member. And don't you get a check to see if it may effect future employment. "Who knows?"

You'll get a check to see if it may effect future employment. "Who knows?"

Awesone, dude.

Dear Editor,

This past Monday, January 22 my wife and I had the privilege of being a part of the annual March for Life in Washington. We were a part of four bus loads from Carlisle. This was very well organized by Dennis Lebo and Greg Hoyer. Dennis said he had been doing this for the past eight years. All the people who had been there in previous years said that this was by far the largest march yet, in spite of what the media may have said.

As we walked, we were impressed with the vast throng of people. There was a rally at noon on the ellipse. The march then began at 1:00 on the rally route. We were about in the middle of the march when Dennis and Greg Hoyer. Dennis said he had been doing this for the past eight years. All the people who had been there in previous years said that this was by far the largest march yet, in spite of what the media may have said.

I was impressed with how orderly and well-maintained the people were. There were people of all ages and the banners indicated many churches involved. There were lots of young people including many colleges.

It took us about 3:30 to reach the Supreme Court building and there seemed to be a many behind us in the march at about 4:00. Many people stopped in front of the building, and on the other end of the street to that was very difficult to get by. We were attracted to the Capitol South Metro Station to return to RPK Stadium where the buses were parked. But by the time we walked the two blocks from the Supreme Court building, there was already a throng of people stretching for about two blocks waiting to enter the station. A policeman told one of our group that we would be better off to walk to the stadium which was about 25 blocks. So we and a lot of other people walked arriving at the bus a little after five.

There is another march planned by National Right to Life for April 28. If you feel strongly about abortion and have never participated in a march, I would urge you to plan to go. Also see January 22 next year for there will again be a march.

Sincerely,
Dennis L. Hoover

Eurich makes academic history at Penn State

Janelle L. Eurich, 23 Impala Drive, Dillsburg, graduated "With Highest Distinction" from Pennsylvania State University on January 6, 1990.

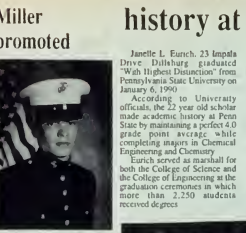

While at the University Park campus, Eurich was a student leader in InterVarsity Christian Fellowship and spent Easter Break of 1989 on a mission project in Tijuana, Mexico with 14 other members of this group. For this activity these students raised more than $15,000 to pay expenses, rounded a house to be used for an orphanage, and purchased food for distribution to the Mexican people.

Other college activities included playing 1st chair saxophone in the White Concert Band and contributing to an 1989 championship intramural girls basketball team.

As a Kodak scholar, she spent two summers working as an intern for Kodak, Inc. in Rochester, New York.

Eurich will begin working as a chemist in the Research and Development Department of W.L. Gore and Associates in Newark, Delaware and was one of the twenty-three graduates who received a University Scholar's Award.

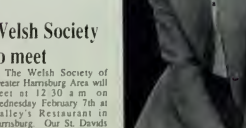

Eurich's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Eichen, all of Dillsburg.

AROUND THE TOWN. Last of January night really going all out to put the program over at Dillsburg. Pretty nice the kids will be sporting uniforms thanks to the money we've on the back of said uniforms. Might be a good idea for you parents to purchase the people who gave us plenty of their time and money to make these uniforms possible. Looking for Dale Albert. I picked him down working at the Clear Springs. Moore Court. Mrs. Baker is going to have one of the loveliest lunches I've ever seen. Just like you are in the magazine. John Baker has a new hobby consisting of rescuing an old 1915 Ford to running condition. If you know of anyone who has a windshield for the same, get in touch with him. Wonder what happened to Bill Shaw's hot? Haven't seen it around lately. Times paper boy for Dillsburg area has left me paperless on the last two Saturdays. Whallop! Whallop! Whallop! (Haley) Pick out giving his morning exercise pushing young Mark Morris' truck. But truck and Bradley doing fast, thank you. Hardly ever better getting pastime, interesting a former employer's picture in his show window. He's at the Army. Hope the Baker kids are off the sick list for the time being. I hope. Two of the hardest jobs to get hold of when you need them. Her Steyer and Jerry Seibert. HAPPY BIRTHDAY ZEE! Here's a bunch of people celebrating their birthday this week. Pick out the ones you know and send 'em a belated card!

J. Alden Ruder, Stephen Leiser, Mrs. Minnie Leiser, Rev. George Young, Vernon E. Noll, III, Omer Wm. E. Watts, Mrs. Oso Spahr, Mrs. Paul Cook, Mrs. G.C. Fiskel, Clarence L. Weaver, George C. Fiskel, Mrs. Margaret Allen, Johnny Shearer, Cassell, Sarah Spahr, John C. Baker, Victor Gooding, Donald Sheltzerberger and Alma B. Coulson.

Hope you all feel a year younger and bliss as all fresh Harrisburg, February 4, 1993.

When they moved out from his view Jesse knew what he had to do.

He said "OKAY, it's do or die." He fired it off, his shot went big.

Upon this startling revelation, Jesse adjusted his elevation.

He fired again a massive blow, To his dismay, the ball went low.

The Buck he couldn't take this heat, He said it's time to beat my feet.

As he crossed the ridge on this Quick Hike He said, "Jesse, Stick to Three Point Spikes!"

When they moved out from his view Jesse knew what he had to do.

He said "OKAY, it's do or die." He fired it off, his shot went big.

Upon this startling revelation, Jesse adjusted his elevation.

He fired again a massive blow, To his dismay, the ball went low.

The Buck he couldn't take this heat, He said it's time to beat my feet.

As he crossed the ridge on this Quick Hike He said, "Jesse, Stick to Three Point Spikes!"
